SAX AND FRYER COLLECTION

HISTORICAL NOTE

In 1882, John Sax and Al Croonquist started a newsstand in the Albemarle Hotel Annex. Shortly afterwards Mr. Croonquist moved to Red Lodge. The newsstand became a store located at 109 North Main Street in Livingston, Montana that opened in 1883 by John O. Sax. It was stocked with fruits and confectionery when it first opened. John O. Sax was associated with several partners before Harry McCue joined him in 1896. The store known as Sax and McCue's was enlarged to also include fishing tackle, stringed musical instruments, bicycles, school books and a soda fountain. In 1910, Harry McCue became sheriff and passed away in 1911. At this time John William Fryer became a partner in the business and the store relocated to Callender Street, where it is currently located. The store became the Sax and Fryer. In 1925, Mr. Sax sold his interest to Mr. Fryer and Mr. Haberstroh and retired. John William Fryer's son, Frank, and later his grandson, John Fryer, continued operating the store, changing with the times and creating a historical presence in Livingston, Montana.

Born in Springdale in 1900, to John William Fryer and Agnes Mae Adams Fryer, Frank Fryer graduated from the University of Montana in Missoula in 1924. He joined his father, John W. Fryer, in the Sax and Fryer Company and married Susanne Walker in 1930. Frank Fryer took a personal interest in the store, his customers and collecting. His personal interests in saddles, bridles, harnesses and horse gear led him to create a museum in the basement of Sax and Fryer. In addition to the horse gear, Frank Fryer also developed an interest in collecting hand sculpted items. As manager of the shop, Frank Fryer enjoyed working evenings. The old-timers would come to the shop in the evenings to visit with Frank Fryer and share their tales. Frank Fryer developed friendships with the old-timers and earned their trust. As the friendships flourished and these folks grew older, they brought Frank Fryer boxes of their belongings. Their trust of Frank Fryer and the realization that they had no one else to give their belongings to increased the size of the collection housed in the store basement.

Frank Fryer displayed these items in cases, stands and throughout the Sax and Fryer Store. In addition, he purchased objects from a curio shop in Livingston, Sharp's Curio, which sold Native American items. Mrs. Sharp operated the store and her husband collected or traded for Native American crafts when he worked as a trapper. Another source of the collection could possibly be from a museum that was located in the old City Hall. When the City Hall relocated to a new building in the 1940s, it's possible that the objects in the collection went to Frank Fryer since museums did not exist in Livingston at that time.

John Walker Fryer, son of Frank and Susanne Fryer, grew up in the store. While attending third grade his favorite grandmother died. Afterwards, Mrs. Eliza Ballinger Talcott called John Fryer over to her house to tell him from now on she was going to be his grandmother. Almost every day after school, John Fryer would go over to visit with Mrs. Talcott and listen to her stories. She told him about traveling across the country and arriving in upper Yellowstone in the 1880s before Livingston existed. Mrs. Talcott shared her experiences of traveling over Bozeman Pass and life in early day Livingston. From these tales, John Fryer developed his keen interest in history. His interest continued to grow as he helped his father in the store and learned about the collection, now considered an unofficial museum, in the store basement. John Fryer graduated from the Montana State in Bozeman. He worked in advertising and public relations for several years before he became a partner at Sax and Fryer in 1963.

Frank Fryer passed away in 1979. John Fryer continued in his father's footsteps as owner and manager of the Sax and Fryer Store. Folks began visiting John Fryer at the store and left their collectables and historic materials with him. John Fryer also visited with the hermits and bachelors living outside of Livingston. He befriended Hermit Ralph Smith and "Greasy Bill" and helped them as they grew older and feebler. Upon their passing, John Fryer received items from both men, such as the handmade yoke, Ralph Smith used daily to fetch his water.

John Fryer served on the City-County Zoning Board and has been very active in the historic preservation efforts in Livingston. As of 2012 John Fryer continues to manage the Sax and Fryer Store and care for the museum.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The material in the Sax and Fryer Collection comprises of material donated to the Fryer family for approximately the past 72 years. The historical photographs document life in Park County primarily from the late 1880s through the 1960s. A few items date from the 1970s to 2012. These first two donations comprise of two boxes of material from the museum located in the basement of the store. The Sax and Fryer Store museum began with Frank Fryer's personal collecting in the 1940s. In the 1940s, when the Livingston City Hall relocated to a new building the only museum in town closed. It's rumored that these items may have been donated to Frank Fryer to care for and display since no other museum or historical society existed to preserve and care for historical material. The Sax and Fryer collection documents the events, families and towns in Park County. It does not document the daily operations of the Sax and Fryer Store or the Fryer family. Future donations may include the store archives. The collection remains open for future donations.

SERIES DESCRIPTION

SERIES 1 PHOTOGRAPHS, NEGATIVES, SUPPORTING MATERIAL FOLDER SF1-SF75, 2011.010.001-0075 1880s-2011

The series comprises primarily of photographs given to John Fryer and his father for safe keeping in their museum. John Fryer donated the folders in alphabetical order by the individuals surname or by town or subject. This original order was maintained except when the folder comprised of specific company documents or events, which were moved to a separate folder for subject access. The materials in this series represent a small portion of the material at Sax and Fryer Store. Additional material will be transferred in the future.

SERIES 2 UNCLAIMED PHOTOGRAPH ORDERS FOLDER SF76-82, 2008.018.0001-0007 UNDATED, 1909

The photographs in the series consist of photograph orders left by customers of the Sax and Fryer Store. The customers never returned to pickup these orders. From the date marked on one of the envelopes the photographs may have been taken around 1909. Prints of the negatives were not created until 1965. We organized the photograph orders alphabetically by the customer's last name (if known). The unidentified orders were placed at the end of the series. None of the individuals are indentified and most of the locations of picnics and gatherings are unknown.

SERIES 3 OVERSIZE FOLDER 1, 6 LEDGERS 2011.010.1024-1030 1886-2012

The series comprises of publications removed from Series 1 for preservation and storage and six hotel registers. The publications retain the original alphabetical order created by John Fryer. The publications contain articles or the entire issue is focused on a subject, individual or town in Park County. One item of significance is the Helena Journal published the day Montana attained statehood. To represent "the red letter day", the issue was printed in red ink. The register ledgers from the Merchants and the Albemarle Hotel date from the late 1880s to 1903. The ledgers include the guests name, residence and date.

SERIES 4 AUDIO/VISUAL 2011.010.1000-1011 ca. 1930s-1960s

The series comprises of reel-to-reel tapes of events, parades, and ranches in Livingston and throughout Park County. The majority of the motion film was created by Charles W. Herbert, and donated to John Fryer throughout the years. The tapes were digitized for preservation and access. Digitization/transfer of the 16mm acetate motion picture film to VIDEO_TS file directory format dvds used an archival Elmo Telecine film transfer machine. The VIDEO_TS directories have been converted to Audio-Video Interleave format (AVI) with an XviD lossy codec using AutoGK free software without resolution compression.

SERIES 5 OBJECTS 2011.010.2000-2001 UNDATED

The handmade yoke made by hermit Ralph Smith and the Masonic sword of the York Rite known as Knight Templar's owned by John O. Sax comprise the series. Neither item is dated.
